Most events are scored on a spreadsheet. Verdict is different.

Spreadsheets, paper sheets and whiteboards record a result once the match is over, and everything else falls to the people running the day: the draw, the clock, the rules, the ladder and the arguments. Verdict OSP runs the round itself, from the draw to the final result. The booth records every point as it happens, the rulebook carries everything that follows, and the results link straight into Genesis.

The Verdict home page: every series, every round and what needs doing next

1 Set it up
The series, the rulebook, and the logos and sponsors, done once for the season.

2 Before the day
Register the teams, build the draw and set the field layouts for the round.

3 On the day
Run the round from the booth, check the results and publish them to Genesis.

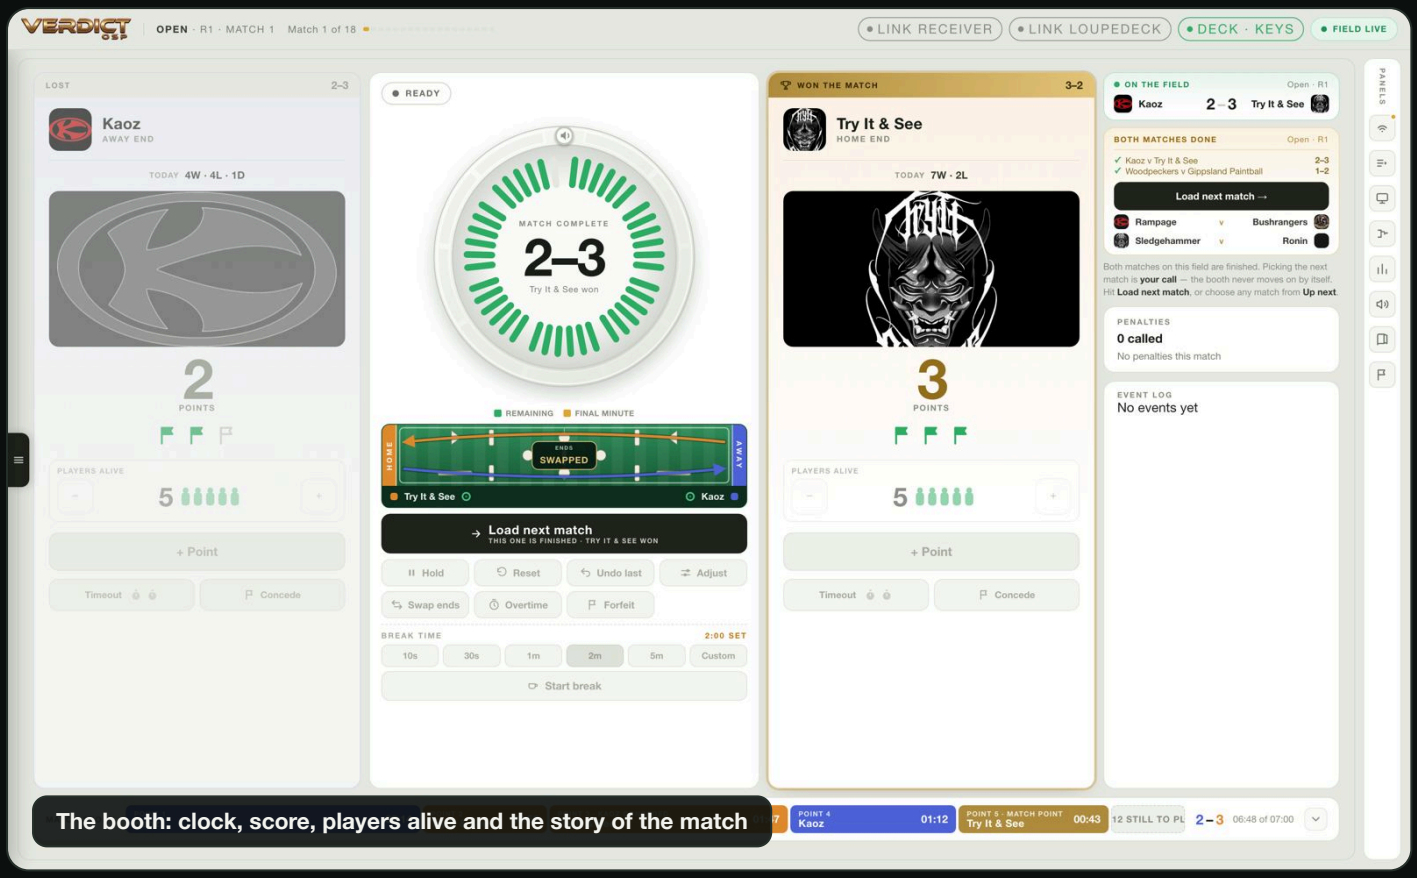
On the day: the booth

One screen runs every match. The scorekeeper records the call, and Verdict carries everything that follows.



The booth: clock, score, players alive and the story of the match

	SPREADSHEET OR PAPER	VERDICT OSP
THE DRAW	Built by hand, then copied onto a sheet	● Built from the rulebook: prelims, split decks and Cup and Plate finals, printed on A4 and on players' phones by QR code
SCORING	The result written in once the match is over	● Every point recorded as it happens, with the clock, penalties and players alive
THE CLOCK	A separate timer, run by someone else	● Match clock and break clock run from the booth, with the calls and the horn through the PA
RULES	Golden point and penalties worked out by a person on the day	● The rulebook carries it. A drawn final goes to the golden point by itself, with a manual way out
LADDER	Added up by hand as results come in	● Updates the moment a point ends
TIES	Sorted out by hand, and often argued	● Broken down the rulebook in order, with every step shown
MISTAKES	Crossed out and rewritten	● Tap the point, correct it, and the ladder follows
LIVE SCORES	A photo of the sheet posted on Facebook	● Live on the field TV, the stream, players' phones and Genesis
AFTER THE ROUND	The results stay in one file	● Published to Genesis: the ladder, the finals, every score, and statistics only Verdict can give

VERDICT OSP — Scored at the booth → GENESIS OSP — On the scene record

- Live scores on Genesis as each point is played.
- The finished round goes up with the ladder, the finals and every score.
- Season points carry across the series by themselves.
- Nothing is typed in twice.

ONLY WITH VERDICT OSP

Statistics no spreadsheet can give

Because Verdict records every point, Genesis shows statistics found nowhere else, and only for rounds scored with Verdict: how each team plays point by point, how it compares with the rest of the series, series records, the matches lost point by point, and a scouting view of every opponent.

A complete hardware kit

Built for Verdict, from the booth desk to the field

Scorer console	10 inch screen	Field buzzers	Field TV box	Audio box	Pit buttons
Receiver, clocks and a Loupedeck	Draw, standings, signals and sound	One at each end of the field	Puts the round on the TV	Calls, tones and the horn on the PA	Pit 1 and Pit 2

The rulebook, built in

Points for a win, draw and loss, penalties, timeouts, tie-breaks and the golden point, set once for the series and applied the same way every match.

Draw and run sheet

Prelims, split decks and Cup and Plate finals built for you. Printed on A4 for the field, and open on players' phones by QR code.

Signals

Signal strength and battery for every field button, and a check on every screen, so a problem shows before it costs a point.

Venue screens

The live match on the field TV. Between matches it moves through the winner, the draw and the next match by itself.

Fix a point afterwards

Tap any point, at the booth or on a finished match, correct it, and the score and the ladder follow.

More than one operator

Each person signs in with their own login, and the record shows who ran the booth.

Always moving forward. Verdict is in ongoing development and refined after every round it runs.
In development now: Verdict overlays for live streaming in OBS, with the score bar, standings and winner graphics straight from the booth.
